

NULLBOUND

// THE LAST SIGNAL

When the System broke, the pieces kept drifting.

Many fled the crumbling islands, but I stayed on. There was nothing left to defend, but I didn't know what else to do.

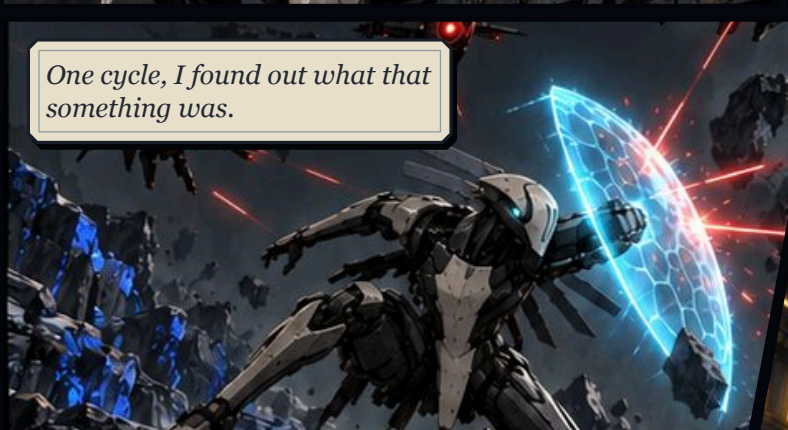

Each cycle, I found enough power to keep going.

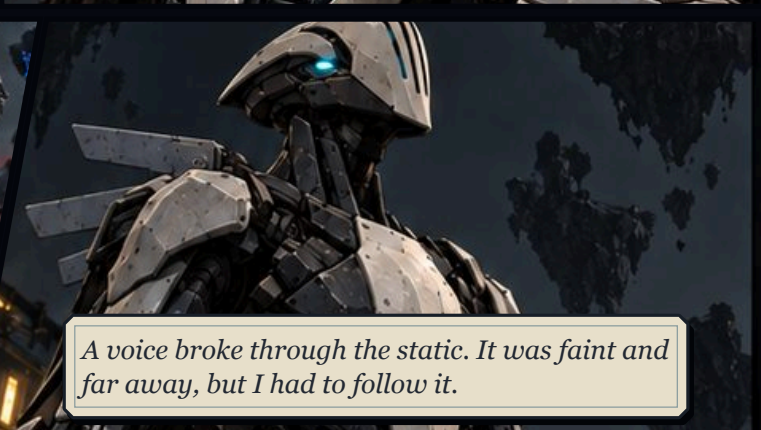

Even without hope, something kept me moving.

One cycle, I found out what that something was.

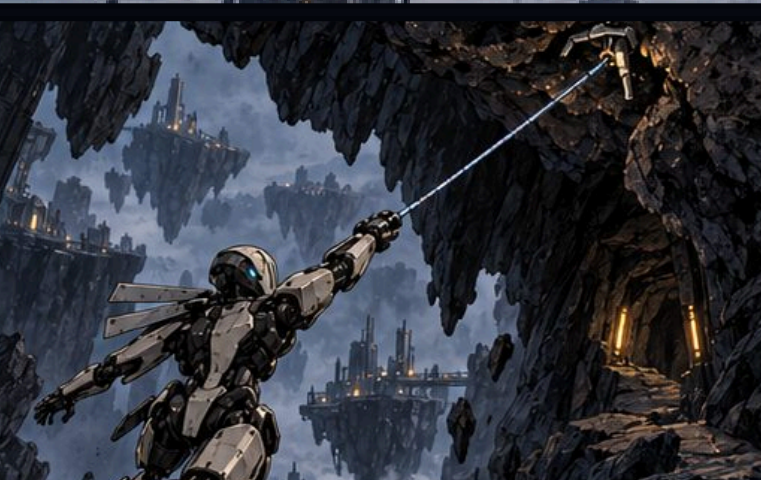

A voice broke through the static. It was faint and far away, but I had to follow it.

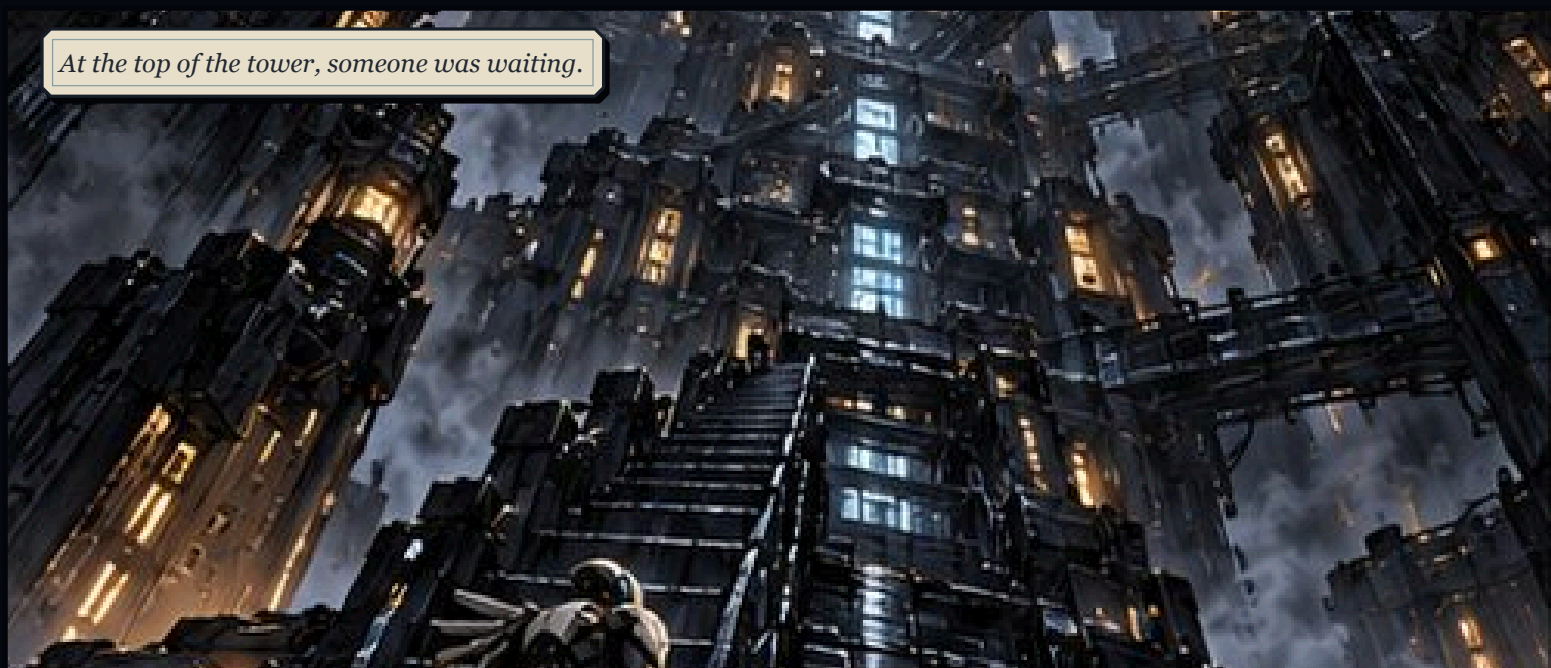

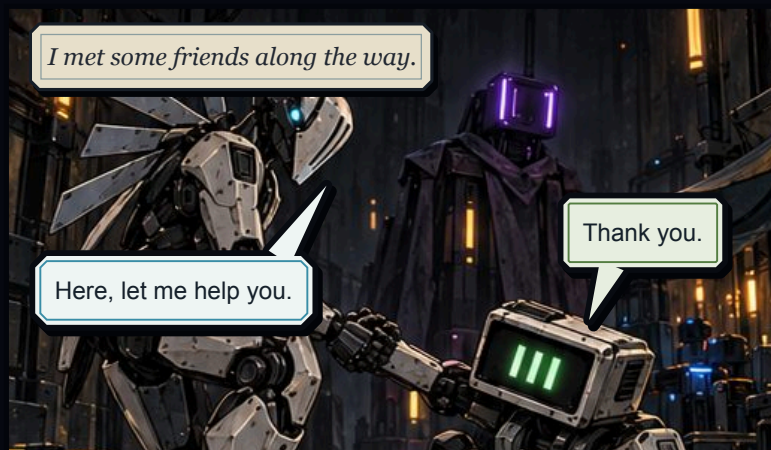

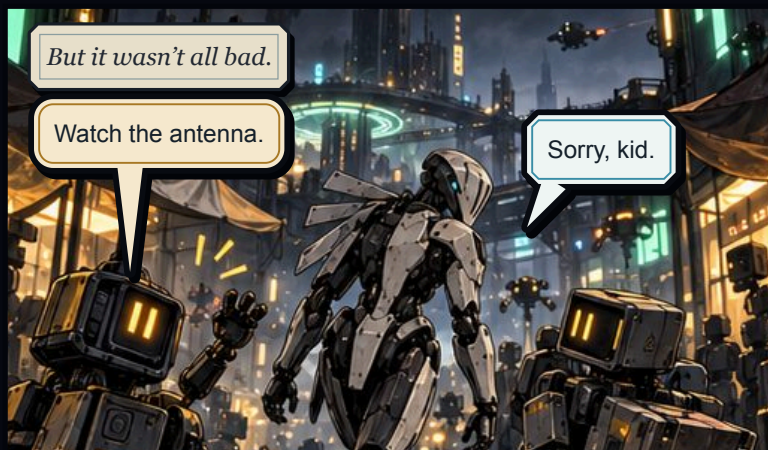

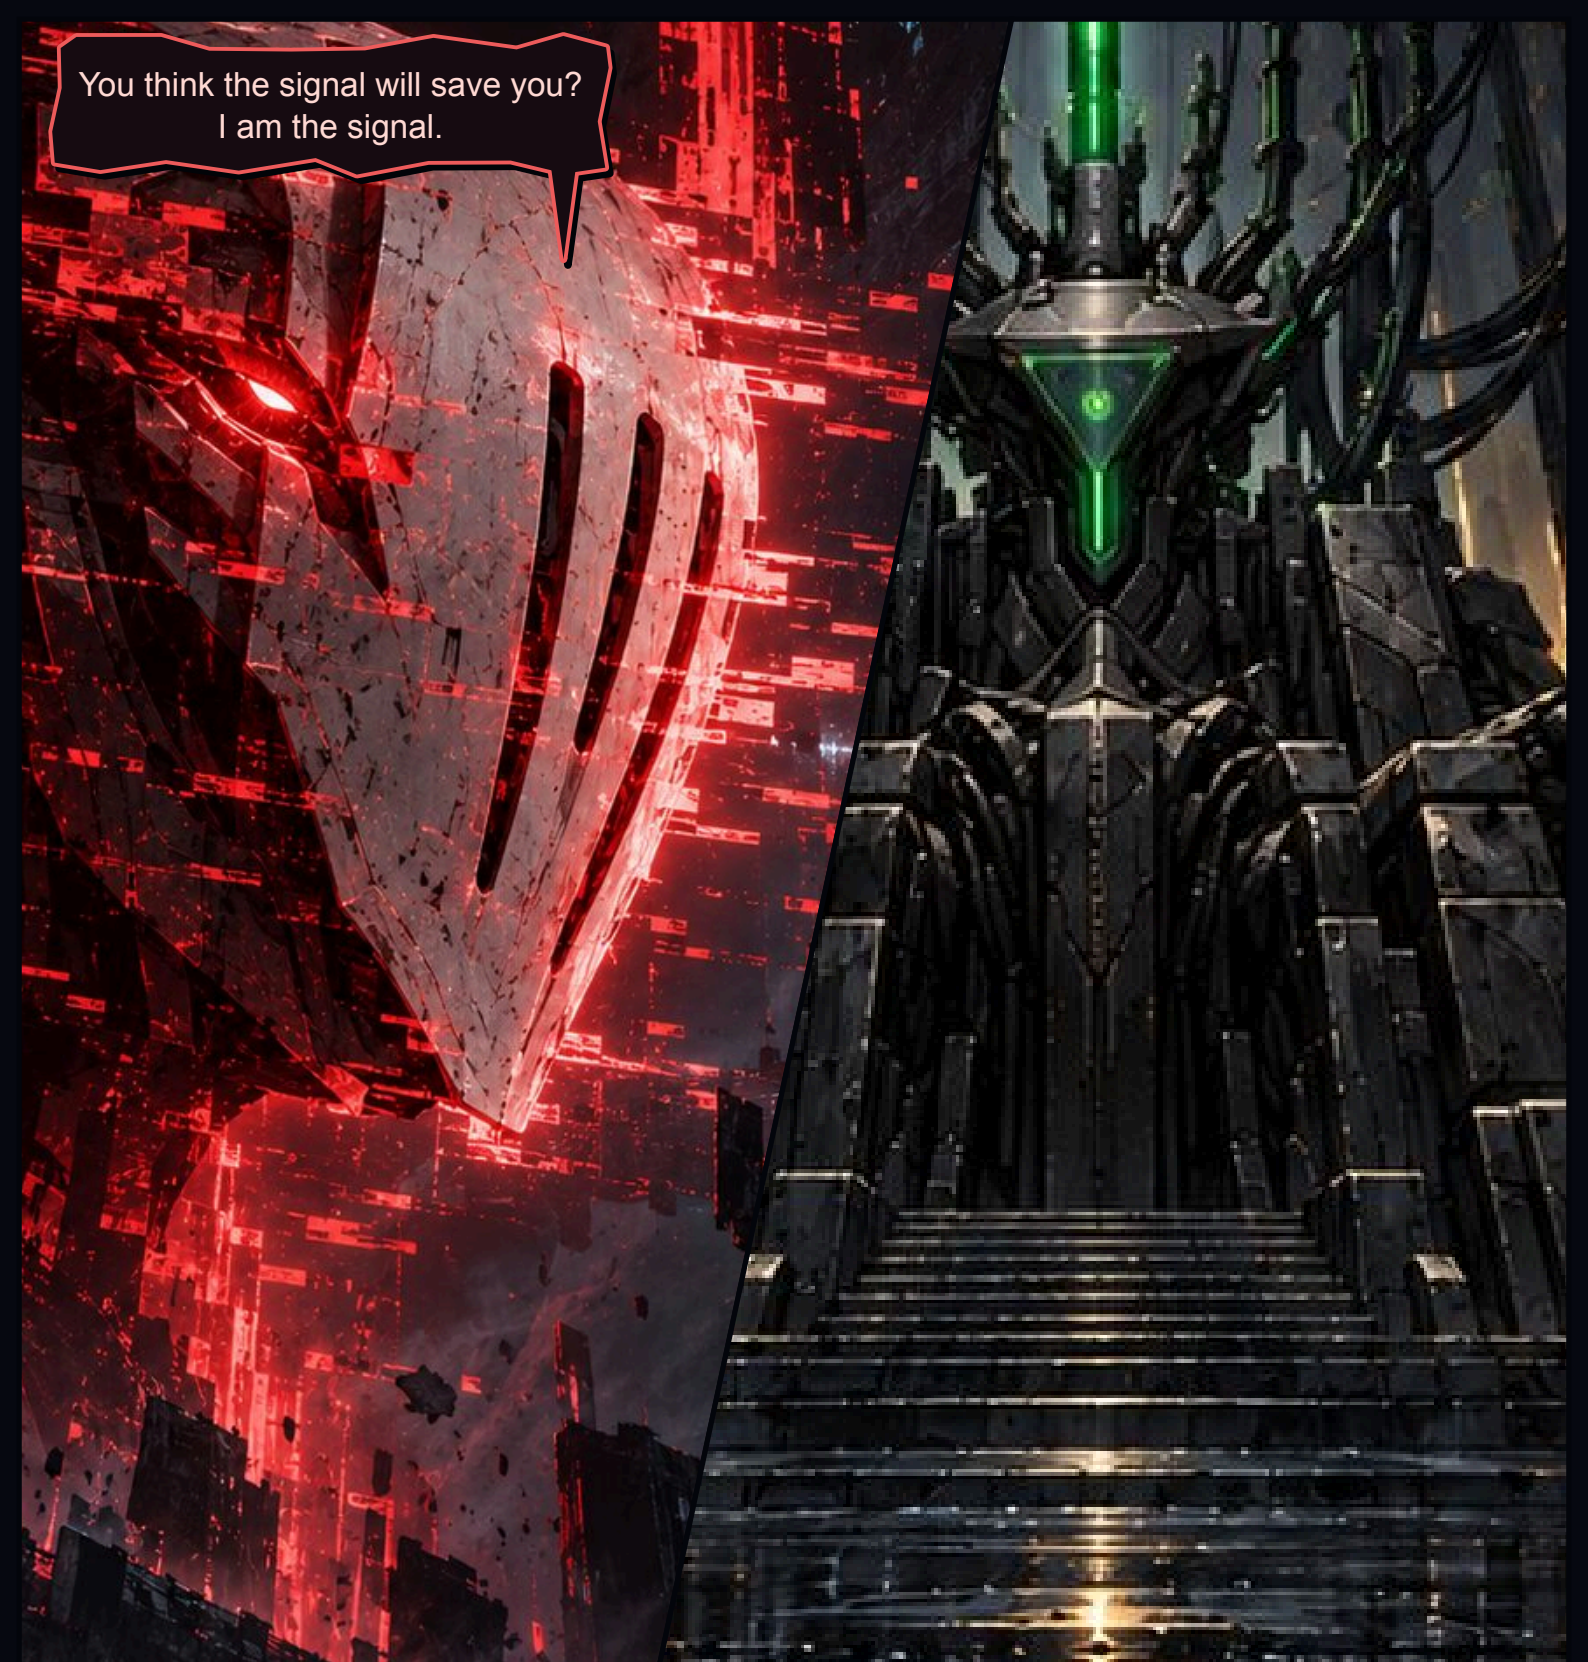

The voice grew clearer as I climbed higher. For the first time since the Fragmentation, I had a purpose.

Climbing wasn't always easy.

You think the signal will save you?
I am the signal.

I will endure.

I will find a way to bring the System back together.
